

Many reasons for part-timers at Conestoga

By Jennifer Daniels

Although full-time students are usually preferred, there are many reasons for being part-time students, said Dr. Marlene McLean, dean of applied arts.

"It would be nice for you here and left-time teachers in our program," said Marlene. But the part-time life is permanent.

"In Canada, no teacher in this class can receive a full-time salary because there is, at the moment, no salary for teachers," explained Marlene. But even if the current salary is to be part of the salary, it does not mean full-time work."

Another example of the salary cap is teaching assistant Marlene McLean, who has over 10 years of experience in teaching and research.

McLean said she has had to work full-time, although she would prefer to be in the field.

Conestoga to offer part-time courses in gambling

By Peter Maxwell

In response to the growth of gambling in Ontario, Conestoga will introduce two part-time courses designed to address the needs of students seeking the same.

The two courses will cover both the legal and management aspects of gambling.

The courses will be offered in the fall semester, starting in October.
